Council acts on perilous walk to Waveland School

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday night agreed to commence construction immediately on a sidewalk along St. Joseph Street near the Waveland Elementary School. The project will cost approximately $24,000.

"I definitely want those kids off the street," said Ward One Alderman Louis Smolensky, "and if that means building a sidewalk—I'm for it."

The Board also speculated on creating sidewalks throughout Waveland, but noted funds are not available for such projects yet.

In other business Tuesday, the Board sanctioned purchase of a Ford LTD from Charlie Henderson Ford Inc. for the Waveland Police Department.

The police-equipped vehicle costs $5,973.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen were also invited to a Mississippi Municipal Association Mid-Winter and Legislative Conference scheduled Jan. 24 and 25 at the Coliseum Ramada Inn in Jackson.

Discussion at the conference will center around public and employee labor management relations and providing current information to local government officials who attend.

The mayor and Ward Two Alderman Jack Toomey expressed general doubt about the 201-208 wastewater plan.

"We account for every penny in our city," said Longo, "and that's not hard to do. I would like to see this Coastwide Wastewater Management team do the same."

"We have the finest sewer treatment plant in the southeastern United States," elaborated the mayor.

Longo said representatives for the plan have never sufficiently answered his questions concerning the wastewater plan, but he is aware the city will have to face up to the water pollution problem along the Gulf Coast and do something about it.

"As soon as we get a letter from Washington after the plan is contested completely, then we will check with our congressmen to see if we really have to comply and join the coast wastewater plan—and then if our congressmen say yes we'll join."

A public hearing to discuss the Coastwide Wastewater Management Plan is scheduled at 10 a.m. today at the City-County Library.

Bond issue election rescheduled Jan. 27

Bay man faces assault charge

By RICH ADAMS

A Bay St. Louis man has been charged with aggravated assault in connection with the New Year's Eve shooting of an Irvin, Texas man, Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner, Jr. said.

According to Ladner, Joseph Rieux of Bay St. Louis is free on $5,000 bond after allegedly shooting Alton Ray Crowley, 39, of Irvin, Texas.

Rieux allegedly gave Crowley and a female friend, 18-year-old Gloria Pratt of Barrington, Vermont, a ride from a convenience store in Bay St. Louis to New Orleans on Dec. 31.

The two had reportedly been hitchhiking from Vermont to Texas, the sheriff said.

Rieux reportedly gave the pair a ride to New Orleans and bought them drinks in New Orleans, Ladner said.

Crowley and Pratt allegedly requested a ride back to Bay St. Louis with Rieux, saying they wanted to take a shower at his home, Ladner reported.

On the return trip Crowley was shot in the stomach with a small caliber pistol, the sheriff said.

According to the two "hitchhikers," Rieux tried to rob the couple and shot Crowley when the Texan could produce no money.

Rieux claims the two hitchhikers attempted to rob him, and he shot Crowley in an attempt to foil the robbery.

Pratt claims Rieux raped her, but refused to allow doctors at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis to bond issue.

Beat Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson voted against calling the election.

A necessary majority of 60.2 voters in the district favored the proposal Nov. 7, but the election was voided because of improper pre-election notice advertisement.

A new election was set Jan. 13, and voided again because a voting precinct was left out of a Dec. 21 publication notice.

Mississippi law requires notice of school bond elections be published for three successive weeks, the first date being not less than 21 days prior to the election, and the last being not more than seven days prior to the election.

School Superintendent Terrell Randolph has charged Chancery Court Clerk John D. Rutherford with the ultimate responsibility for properly publicizing the past elections.

Rutherford has denied responsibility, and Supervisors Attorney Walter Gex has taken full responsibility for the mistakes in publication.

Hancock County Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis said the South Bay voting precinct was left out of the Dec. 21 publication of the bond election scheduled Jan. 13, because no registered voters in Hancock County School District were believed to be in the South Bay precinct.

But, Otis said he has since been informed there are registered voters from the County School District within the South Bay precinct, therefore that precinct must be included in the publication notice of the election.

Admiral Beyer to be buried at Arlington

Graveside services are scheduled today at Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia, for retired United States Naval Reserve Rear Admiral Edward Flood Beyer of Bay St. Louis.

Admiral Beyer died at his home here Sunday, December 31, 1978.

He was 86 years old.

He began his Navy career during World War I and continued in the Reserve until his retirement as rear admiral after World War II.

During WWII, Admiral Beyer served in both Atlantic and Pacific theaters.

As captain of the USS HINSDALE (APA 120), flagship for Transport Division 44, he participated in the invasion landings at Two Jima and at Okinawa.

During the latter landing on April 1, 1945, the USS HINSDALE sustained a direct hit by a kamikaze and although severely damaged, managed to disembark the assault troops.

For his part in this action, Beyer was awarded the Bronze Star.

Between the two wars, he served in various capacities with the United Fruit Company and its subsidiary, the Munargo Line Company.

He spent the latter part of his business career as general manager, southern division, United Fruit Company, with headquarters in New Orleans.

He participated in numerous civic and maritime associations, and has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce and Director of the Yacht Club. He received the Outstanding Citizen Award given by the Chamber of Commerce.

Admiral Beyer was born in New Orleans, La., but spent most of his childhood in Ocean Springs and Bay St. Louis where he retired.

His first wife, Nell May Beyer died July 28, 1969.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian Paton Miller Beyer; a daughter, Mrs. Karon C. Miller of Fairfax, Va.; two sons, Captain Kenneth M. Beyer, USN (Ret.) of Ocean Springs, and Spruce Pine, N.C.; a sister, Mrs. Morris DePass of Biloxi; a brother, Harry M. Beyer of Bay St. Louis and New Orleans; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated Tuesday at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis.

Election notices still 'hot potato'

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School Board Tuesday reshaped the second recent delay of a $3.4 million dollar school bond issue election. Board Attorney Joseph Gex denying responsibility for improper advertising of the proposal.

The bond issue was delayed a second time because the South Bay precinct was omitted from an advertisement on Dec. 21.

Superintendent Terry Randolph said Tuesday Hancock County Chancery Court Clerk John D. Rutherford's secretaries were "too busy" to prepare papers advertising the bond issue when he took a Board resolution to the Chancery clerk's office on Dec. 18.

"We went up to the Chancery clerk's office on Dec. 18. Rutherford's people said they were too busy to prepare the paperwork and asked if someone else could prepare the papers," Gex said.

Gex said he prepared the papers from an old advertisement.

"I got an old copy of the precincts," Gex said.

"Jim Pfeiffer at the Chancery clerk's office told me to check and see if any of the precincts had been changed.

I checked with Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis, who said none of the precincts were changed," Gex continued.

"Otis called after the advertisement was run and said we had left out the South Bay precinct. Otis said he had forgotten about that precinct, and I had worded the advertisement exactly like the old advertisement," Gex added.

"The Nov. 7 election advertisement was wrong also. The South Bay precinct was also omitted," he said.

Randolph insisted his office was not responsible for the most recent error.

"The ultimate responsibility, for the 100th time, is with the Chancery clerk. We did our part," he said.

"Technically speaking, once the resolution is prepared, we hand it to the Chancery clerk and we're done," Randolph contended.

In other Board action Tuesday, the Board postponed installation of 1979 officers until a meeting slated for Friday.

The installation will mark the end of Woodrow Ladner's chairmanship and will place Otis, Ladner as board chairman.

The succession of board officers is set up in a Jan. 3, 1978 policy which was unanimously accepted by the Board.

The policy states, "(the board member from) Beat Four will resume chairmanship of the Board at the first meeting of 1979. Thereafter, (the members from) Beat Three, Beat Five, and Beat Two (will succeed into the office.) The incoming chairman will become vice-chairman for that year."

On Jan. 11, 1978, then vice-chairman Johnny Banks resigned from that position on the board to make the policy effective allowing Otis Ladner to assume the vice-chairmanship.

Ladner will be installed as chairman Friday.

In other business, the Board opened bids for disposal of consumable garbage at Gulfview Elementary School, accepting the bid of O. B. Ladner at $16.60 a month.

Other bids received were from Sol Cuevas at $6 a month and Ernest Ladner at $10 a month.

The Board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Ollie Shiyon, bus driver at Hancock North Central.

Mrs. Shiyon had been a county bus driver for four years.

Randolph questioned the Board's decision to authorize a change order at an earlier meeting which allowed for retelling of two classrooms and replacement of a door at Hancock North Central.

Randolph quoted prices of $1,000 for the tile and $340 for the door.

"I suggest you take the renovations under advisement and obtain an estimate," Randolph said.

Board Chairman Woodrow Ladner and Board Member Louis Ladner argued in favor of the renovations, but Randolph was insistent the Board obtain estimates for what he called "an unneeded expense."

The Board took the issue under advisement to study prices.

Happenings

BAY ST. LOUIS
The year 1978 was one of many activities - for the Hancock County Seniors Center in Bay St. Louis.

And to the Seniors who participated in all of our events, 1978 leaves us with many pleasant memories.

Let's take a trip down memory lane - and reminisce - for a moment - before putting the grand old year upon the shelf.

The social hours, with their game sessions and the prizes contributed by our merchants, fraternal organizations, and friends.

The birthday parties and all the Seniors that allowed us the privilege of celebrating with them each month.

Those grand RSVP volunteers and friends that donated their time and services which brought moments of joy to all in attendance.

We will never be able to forget all of the marvelous entertainment by the many friends such as: Piccolas' School of Dance, June Dearman and her jolly puppet friends, Captain Homer and his fine Magic act, Jerry & Lani with their Hawaiian songs and dances, transplanting us all to that beautiful island for a brief moment.

Our great friend Louis Burghard, always ready to bring us a bag of bright tunes, and so many times, stepping in when someone else was detained and could not make it.

And that special treat for all the men, Leshea and her Arabian Delights, displaying the fine art of the "belly" dances, Nicky Gordon and her organ, which she made do everything but talk.

The Puznos with dances of nostalgia, the very talented pianist Colby Fabian, the "Seniors Too" Orchestra of Gulfport, with its very capable leader Dick Austin, its members, Mark Ritter, Randall McDonnell, Loretta Ritter, and Mercedes Mobley.

Last, but I do not believe least, "The Jazz Combo," Louis Burghard, on piano, Eddie Englehorn, tenor sax, Walter Chamberlain, on banjo, J. J. Maynard on bass, and "yours truly" on drums, who played all those toe-tapping tunes for all of the dancers.

The St. Patrick's Day picnic, The Golden Anniversary Service, honoring all Seniors married 50 years or more, the trip to Hawaii, the many excursions, the annual open house and Bazaar, the Oktoberfest, and the Christmas Party featuring the renowned Moran Family Gospel Singers and instrumentalists.

I am sure every one agrees their renditions rivaled the angelic choirs.

A special thank you, to a terrific telephone committee, who did all of the calling for all of the events all year long.

My group of "Lovely Ladies," Lucy Bradt, Maggie Dambrino, Cecile Gailvan, Nina Garner, Eva Ruhl, Jewell Stratton, Jennie Taconi, Odette Watkins, and our so very much missed Anna Marsh.

A salute to the American Legion Post No. 139, and the Legion Ladies Auxiliary for sponsoring, baking cakes, and serving to one complete game.

Coffee and biscuits will be served every Tuesday morning from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. at the Waveland Civic Center.

Blood pressures will be taken alternately by Pere Cabibi, Julia Loup, Juliette Cook and Eunice Murray, Una Nubber who will also serve coffee and biscuits. Each of you can come, and furnish some cheerful chatter, a bit of news, a funny joke, or just come on in and give us one of your smiles.

As the bells ring in this brand new year let's all make a resolution together, to leave all the bad memories behind us and bring all of the good memories planted within our hearts in front of us.

Add a new supply of love, charity, faith, and hope.

With our hearts already so full, there will not be any more room for all of the negatives to enter in, and we will all know 1979 will be the best year.

Children's make - believe man's 'highest art form'

Your children's holiday make-believe games may be noisy and disorganized, but they're part of one of mankind's highest art forms - the theater.

So says Dr. Seldon Faulkner, new chairman of the Department of Speech and Theater at The University of Mississippi and an expert on children's theater.

"Children are instinctive theater people. Give them a cardboard box and they'll make it into a car or a house or a train. That's what an actor does on stage in a more sophisticated situation," he says.

The imaginative, sensitive side of their nature that produces such activity is diverted as children grow older. Dr. Faulkner believes it should be nurtured.

"The preponderance of education has been aimed at developing the intellect, and the sensitive spirit is left to whoever can get at it. Who gets at it? People selling bubble gum, toys, and other products.

"I'd like to see more schools supplement their classroom emphasis on content with artistic experience in the theater. That can reinforce the knowledge children gain through traditional classroom work."

Before coming to Mississippi, he developed a children's theater project for the Wisconsin Valley Library Association.

In addition to presenting performances based on children's literature, the project encouraged children in the audience to participate, by having them act out the stories themselves.

Children reacted enthusiastically, he said, and library use by children increased significantly.

A children's theater project for Mississippi is one of Dr. Faulkner's goals as head of the Ole Miss department, which has produced a number of leading actors and actresses.

He came to the University from a position as chairman of the Department of Theatre Arts at the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point because, "There is so much potential here. I had read about the Chancellor (Dr. Porter L. Fortune Jr.) and his plans for a performing arts center here, and it sounded exciting."

The Performing Arts Center, now being planned, is Phase II of The University of Mississippi Cultural Center, a wide-ranging project devoted to the arts and the South's cultural heritage. Phase I, the University Museums, was opened in 1977.

At Stevens Point, Dr. Faulkner helped plan such a fine arts center and directed its theater operation. In addition to his work in children's theater, he has directed almost 50 stage productions, including the recent University of Mississippi Theatre production of "Scapino."

He is also a former director of the University of Colorado Theatre and the St. Louis University Theatre, and of three overseas USO tours.

He earned a PhD degree in theater at the University of Iowa, where his dissertation dealt with 19th Century theater in Memphis.

His wife, Dona Clark Faulkner, is interested in vocal music and theater. They have two children.

Is heating with wood cheaper than with other fuels? The answer depends on several things.

Wood is economical if you cut your own trees, season the wood properly and burn it in a well designed heater.

Before buying a wood-burning stove or furnace you need to understand both the advantages and disadvantages of using wood as a fuel.

The advantages include: (1) costs are smaller when you cut your own trees, also your supply is not as limited as it is with the fossil fuels; (2) wood, unlike fossil fuels is a renewable, natural resource; (3) the heat value from air dried, standard cord of some hardwoods when burned in efficient units is nearly equal to 130 gallons of No. 2 fuel oil; (4) besides providing a cheap source of firewood, good tree management improves the quality of your remaining trees; and (5) burning wood adds to a sense of independence and security.

Some of the disadvantages are (1) cutting, hauling and stacking your own wood supply is hard work, takes time, and can be dangerous; (2) the tools for cutting wood are expensive; (3) wood must be cut at least six to ten months before burning in order to dry or season properly and a large storage area is needed; (4) wood is relatively bulky for the amount of heat received compared to oil and coal; (5) a wood fire must be stoked and periodically adjusted for best results; (6) when improperly installed or carelessly operated, using a wood stove often results in poor heating and chimney and house fires; and (7) wood debris, various insects and fungi associated with wood decay are messy when brought into the house.

FACES GUEST - Recording artist McKinley Mitchell, originally of Jackson, is guest on the premiere program of the fourth season of Mississippi ETV's "Faces" series. # Holidays in the country tested for 2,000 years

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation

A manger eh? No suite at the Bethlehem Hilton. Joseph then, 2,000 years ago, wasn't particularly upset even though his wife was on the eve of the advent of the birth of the Christ child. A manger, stalls, hay, shelter from the crisp December night air, privacy for the miracle of birth - all in a barn. Agriculture is used to that sort of thing, you know, even if on that particular night the birth that occurred in that particular stall was the most important event of history.

Yet the story that is retold annually at Christmastide in multitudes of beautiful ways has a common thread woven through the experiences of many people in all lands. That common tie is the fact that so many of the great people and their equally great experiences likewise were begotten in some lowly, nearly private if not so totally so, rural place.

Since the Bethlehem event, twenty centuries have passed and throughout nineteen of them almost all people in all places had their roots in some rural setting and their activities were closely associated with the soil. During colonial times in America it was common philosophy that towns were no wealthier than their surrounding lands. And in 1785, shortly after the birth of this nation, Thomas Jefferson wrote a letter advising that "the small landholders are the most precious part of a state."

The first American colonists came abjectly face to face with the pristine earth and would have perished had not the Indians not taught them how to provide their basic needs for the land. The sophistication of 17th century England was no match for the raw winters, arduous task of clearing land and planting and cultivating fields for mere survival of the hardiest of their numbers. Possibly this nation's greatest gift in the political arts was born in a lowly fashion in the harsh American rural frontier. In Massachusetts, those who came ashore from the Mayflower experimented with a compact to govern their relationships with one another. But it wasn't long until the new Americans found flaws in communal living. They found merit in personal initiative and productivity and from these crude rudiments in self-government came the salient philosophies of the national constitution that followed.

Our first President sprang from a Virginia farm background with its philosophy of self-reliance. A short while later Jefferson at his Monticello home developed the art of country living to its highest level in that day in our nation.

President Lincoln's humble beginning in a small log cabin in Kentucky was a country as you can get. And his education at home by can-delight is probably our greatest example of self-determination. His rail-splitter image brought him to Washington to govern our nation during its greatest trial.

The journey through contemporary history remains solidly dovetailed with the agrarian setting. While numbers of farmers have dwindled due to improved technology, their productivity has increased so that today one farmer provides all the food necessary for himself and some sixty others.

This week as all Americans seek to reassemble with their families they will share meals and gifts and the spirit of the Christian love born in Bethlehem. Many city people will make pilgrimages back to their rural lifestyles where quite preceptibly the purposes of the Bethlehem event come into their sharpest focus.

Christmas in the country still fits best after twenty centuries of testing!

Kidnapper replaces porno king on 'Most Wanted' list

The FBI in Washington has announced a 31-year-old Tennessee prison escapee wanted on a Federal Firearms Action violation has been placed on the "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" list.

Ronald Lee Lyons, a Cincinnati, Ohio, area native whose arrest record extends back to 1967, had served five years of a 50-year sentence at Turney Correctional Facility, Only, Tennessee, for robbery and a deadly weapon.

While on an official, after-hours recreational outing last September with other prisoners and guards at a nearby bowling alley, Lyons and another inmate allegedly produced two sawed-off shotguns, previously hidden in a rest room by external co-conspirators, and disarmed the guards after a shoot-out.

One guard and one other person were injured by gunfire before Lyons, his accomplice, and two other inmates escaped.

The four prison escapees then embarked on a highly publicized, 48-hour crime spree across western Tennessee during which they took eight hostages and commandeered six vehicles.

The escapees fled the state by forcing the owner of a small airport at Dickson, Tennessee, to take them up in a light aircraft.

The flight ended near Moro, Arkansas, when the plane ran low on fuel.

All of the other escapees were subsequently captured, two of them together at a police roadblock.

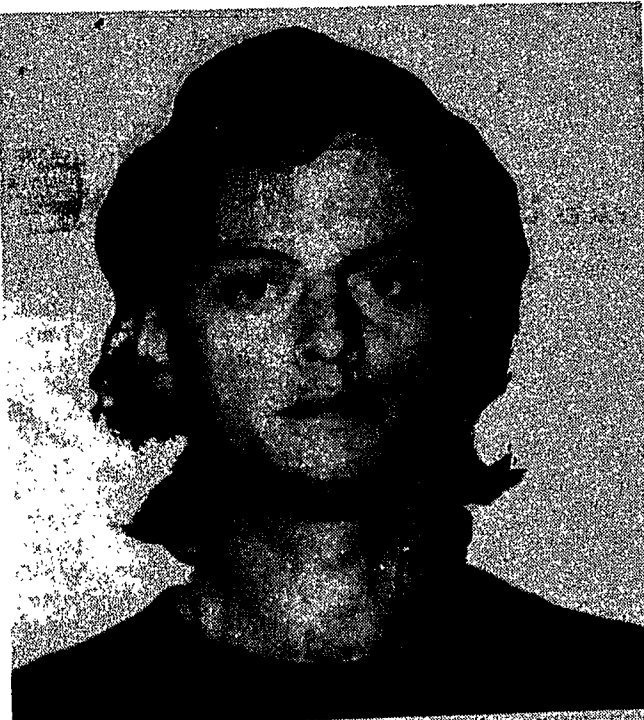

Born on September 22, 1947, Lyons is a 5-foot-11-inch

Caucasian weighing 145 pounds.

'LIFTING UP JESUS'

The sudden flash of one's temper is able to kindle flames that can cause the most beautiful flower to wither; and the honey to lose its sweetness in the fairest Paradise of our earthly home, or cause a heart to bleed that no earthly words spoken can remove the bloodstains that come from a broken heart.

Physicians urge flu shots

It's that time of year again, with radical weather changes such as those experienced in Hancock County this week when, virus infection, including influenza, occurs with consequences from mild upper respiratory infection to pneumonia or death.

In a span of 10 years (1968 to 1978) more than 150,000 excess deaths are estimated to have occurred during epidemics of influenza A in the United States.

Evidence shows that influenza-related deaths are primarily among chronically ill adults and children and old people (over age 65).

Influenza goes under many names, Hong Kong flu, China strain, Russian strains.

Strains of influenza A are found more frequently than influenza B, but influenza B can also cause death.

The Center for Disease Control (CDC) of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in Atlanta, GA, recommends annual vaccination for all persons at increased risk of adverse consequences from infection of the lower respiratory tract.

This statement appears in the November issue of the Annals of Internal Medicine, the official journal of the American College of Physicians, the national professional association of more than 40,000 specialists in internal medicine and related areas.

Some people suffer adverse reactions to the vaccine. The influenza vaccine of 1978-79 has been associated with few side effects.

It consists of inactivated trivalent preparations of three strains expected to be prevalent (A-USSR-77 (H1N1), A-Texas-77 (H3N2), and B-Hong Kong-172).

There are three types of systemic reactions to influenza vaccines:

(1) fever, malaise, myalgia, and other systemic symptoms of toxicity

(2) allergic reactions due to sensitivity to some vaccine component

(3) Guillain-Barre Syndrome (Ascending paralysis)

According to the CDC, there is no evidence to suggest that influenza vaccination of pregnant women poses any special maternal or fetal risk.

Hancock Library offers local Indian history

INDIANS IN THE LIBRARY
By Joe Pilet

If anybody is an authority on Southern Indians, R. S. Cotterill is the man. Here's why: during the time Cotterill was a professor of history at Florida State University he devoted much time to research and study following the dramatic history of such tribes as the Choctaws, Chickasaws, Creeks, and Chickasaws.

Many articles appeared in Southern historical journals authored by Cotterill revealing little known facts concerning the early life of the "Five Civilized Tribes."

In 1953 his book entitled "The Old South" proved popular and ten years later he wrote a volume called "A Short History of the Americas."

Cotterill became so absorbed in recording the history of American Indians until he asked for and was given a release from his teaching duties at the University to devote full time to his book, "The Southern Indians."

Index to "The Southern Indians" has a listing of 67 entries. It's an authoritative volume, well written, readable, and for those who place much importance on the word - it's documented!

Also recommended is "North American Indian" with text by Christopher Davis.

The book is filled with photographs and illustrations, many of which are in color, and places emphasis on the plight of the Indian with the quote "They made us promises, more than I can remember, but they never kept but one. They promised to take our land and they took it."

In the introduction to the book, Marlon Brando wrote: "Indians are not just characters in films, they are people who, I believe, have been wronged and still are being wronged."

The staff of the City-County Public Library can assist in locating a number of excellent books about Indians to be found on the library shelves.

One cannot fully understand our history and our heritage without some knowledge of the people who occurred this land before us.

Seafood dealer objects to 'Gollott reefs' tag

Nine Hancock County residents are listed among some 30 persons holding leases on Mississippi Sound water bottoms for oyster cultivation.

Mississippi Sound water bottoms can be leased by the state to private citizens for development as oyster beds under a law enacted by the state legislature in 1977, although some oystermen oppose allowing leaseholders to transfer oysters from polluted areas to privately leased grounds.

Eley Ross, president of the Gulf Coast Fishermens Organization, said he thinks most opposition to transfer of oysters comes from Protect Graveline Association, a group of Jackson County fishermen.

Grounds for lease are available to anyone who wishes to bid on them, reports the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission, adding the commission can not afford to develop all existing oyster beds for public use.

Oyster leases are water bottom property where leaseholders can transplant oysters taken from polluted waters. Oysters are filter feeders and will cleanse themselves in about two weeks.

Hurricanes, diseases and predators are some of the risks facing the oyster farmer.

An annual fee of at least one dollar per acre for at least five and not more than 100 acres must be paid to the state by leaseholders. A lease is awarded to the highest bidder.

Natural oyster reefs can not be leased, nor can areas designated as tonging reefs or land lying within the riparian rights of a property owner. A leased area must meet water quality standards that warrant at least conditional approval by the State Board of Health.

Larry Gollott of Gollott and Canaan Seafood Co. of Biloxi said some fishermen want all reefs to be public and he wants people to know that he does not hold a lease on any state oyster bed and in fact opposes state leasing of reefs.

"I buy from fishermen and I don't want any hard feelings from them," Gollott said. Gollott feels because he is in the seafood business many people think state leased reefs belonging to other people named Gollott are his.

He said some of the beds are often referred to collectively as the Gollott reefs.

Among 30 people leasing oyster beds from the state are eight with the surname Gollott and several others are related to the Gollotts.

Current leaseholders are: E. R. Gollott, C. F. Gollott, Charlotte D. Gollott, Tanya Lyons, Pat J. Lyons, Nicholas Gollott, Mildred Jones, Lamar Jones, Brian Gollott, Douglas Gollott, Raymond C. Gollott Jr. and Raymond Schultz, all of Biloxi.

Michael D. Wainwright, John E. Ladner, Marion Strong, Harold Strong, Ivan J. Bradford, Lloyd Ladner (recently deceased), and Carroll F. Mayne, all of Bay St. Louis.

Linda Gollott, Margaret A. Snodgrass, Mark A. Snodgrass, Doyal Coffman, and Kathy J. Benezue, all of Ocean Springs.

Charles Blair of Gulfport, Jordan Bradford of Pass Christian, Billy Wilkinson of Wiggins, Thomas J. Holzhauser of Waveland, J. D. Lea of Long Beach, and Mrs. J. E. Cure of Lakeshore.

Bring in the new year

Hancock County can look forward to great things according to the county and city officials.

The building in Diamondhead, other new subdivisions as well throughout the county should enable Hancock to fill the gap we really need for growth.

The new industries already in operation plus DuPont, the Munitions plant as well as other industries eyeing the County all mean that 1979 should be a banner year.

The main concern we have is that we will keep abreast of the growth and not fall behind in needed services. Too fast a growth in a community, like several of our neighbors had since the early 60's, can mean headaches down the road.

We hope Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland officials will have the necessary foresight to make the proper preparations for our growth.

We, as citizens of Hancock, can lend valuable assistance by expressing our opinions to our elected officials. Many tell us they really enjoy hearing from their constituents on the issues at hand.

The elected officials are our representatives. They make the decisions for us, but they are human, and appreciate knowing how we feel.

Most decisions they make are not always to our liking, but if we or you were in their place, the decisions made still wouldn't make everyone happy all the time.

Let us all work toward making Hancock County the most progressive county in the State of Mississippi in 1979.

Bond issue... CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

Otis added, "In May, 1977 voters in Hancock County's School District were asked to re-register at the West Shoreline Park precinct on Catalina Street, but some of these voters failed to do so."

In other action Tuesday, the Board approved Gulf National Bank, Hancock Bank and Security Savings and Loan, all of Bay St. Louis, as Hancock County depositories for 1979.

Security Savings and Loan will be used for investments and excess, surplus funds, said Gex.

The Munro Petroleum Terminal Co.'s bid to provide fuel, motor oil, and lubricants to Hancock County was also approved by the supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors approved Ethel Marie Page's bid to provide meals to Hancock County Jail prisoners at $1.50 a meal.

Permission to advertise for bids on a 12 by 24-foot guard house at the Port Bienville Industrial Park was granted to the County Port and Harbor Commission by the supervisors.

A bid from Turan Lane Chevrolet Inc. on two cars for the Hancock County Sheriff's department was approved by the supervisors.

The two Impalas will cost the department $12,185.

Charlie Henderson Ford bid $8 less than the Chevrolet dealer but, the board approved Turan Lane's bid on the sheriff's recommendation the cars could be provided by Turan Lane immediately, in contrast to waiting until Jan. 25 for delivery by Henderson Ford.

Also at the meeting, Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro recommended a letter be sent to A.C. Jones, chairman of the Hancock County Park Commission, requesting Jones to notify supervisors if he plans to reside in Hancock County.

Perniciaro speculated on removal of the chairman if he does not move from Gulfport.

"If he doesn't live in the county I don't think he should be a county parks chairman," said Perniciaro.

The supervisors also declined a request from Mobile Medic for $15,643.

Beat Five Supervisor James Travica requested the funds be held up until completion of an audit of the ambulance service company.

A school for election commissioners and poll managers is scheduled during the week before the Jan. 27 school bond election, said Otis.

Otis said he hasn't set the date for the instruction sessions yet, but urged precinct workers to contact him for further information.

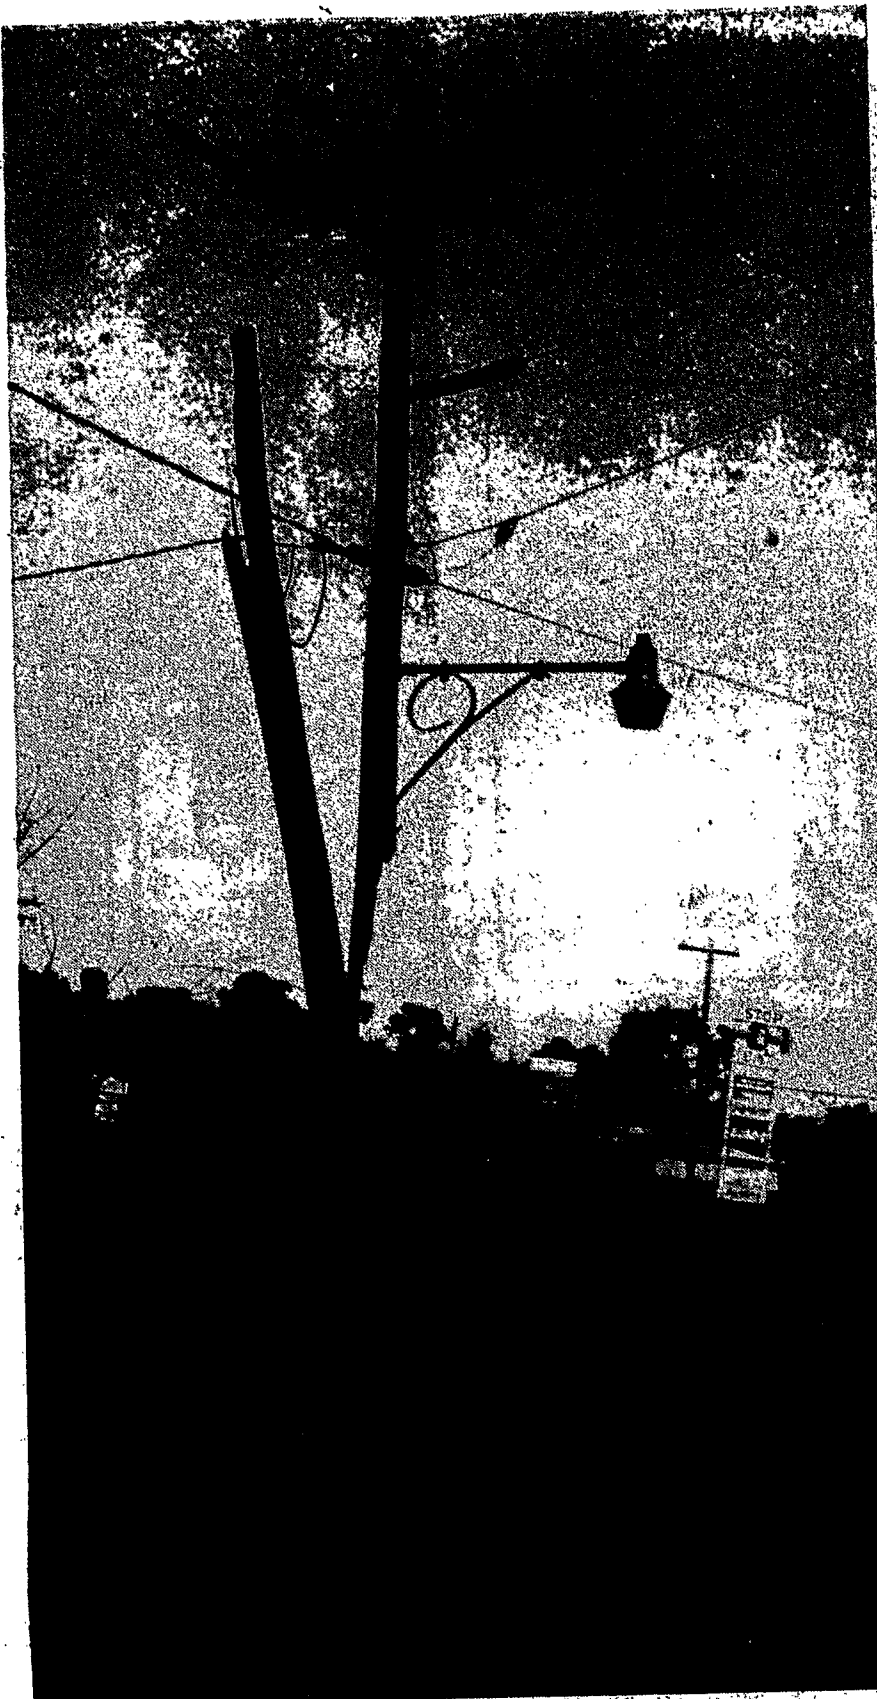

Also at the meeting, county supervisors appointed Board of Supervisors Attorney Walter Gex to represent Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner, Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson and Jailer J. W. Page in a suit brought against the law officials by former inmate of the jail, John Butler.

Butler claims that while he was a prisoner at the county jail in February of 1977, he suffered an abscessed tooth and was taken to a dentist.

Butler alleges the dentist pulled the wrong tooth and broke his jaw, which has caused him to suffer sinus problems.

He alleges Page, Peterson and Ladner refused to provide him medical attention after repeated requests.

He is being represented by Legal Service Attorney Richard C. Gerhardt.

SUDDEN STOP! - Bay St. Louis patrolman Louis Hearty escaped injury during freezing weather when his patrol car skidded into a power pole at North Second and US-90 during chase of a traffic violator about 2:30 a.m. Wednesday morning. Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams said the chase began at Dunbar and U.S.-90 as the violator was going East on the highway and made a U-turn on the service road at the beach, and then turned left up Second Street. Hearty in the chase failed to negotiate the turn and slid into the utility pole at the intersection. Damage to the patrol car was estimated to be about $400 or so, according to Chief Williams. ## Paving begins on Bouslog job

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Bay St. Louis leaders conducted their first meeting of the month of January in record time Tuesday night covering a short agenda.

The Council was unanimous in authorizing the mayor, council, city attorney and city clerk to attend a mid-winter seminar for municipalities in Jackson on January 24 and 25, 1979.

Council received a report on the Bouslog Street sewer extension from the engineering firm of Joe Brown, Inc. stating the project is 60 percent complete.

The report shows the underground work on the Old Spanish Trail, Gladstone Street, Seventh Street and Turner Avenue as being 100 percent complete with preparation for paving in progress on all streets.

The report also states the project should be completed well within the allowed time.

Four firms submitted bids to the Council for equipment rental by the City, with prices on a per hour basis.

Bids were submitted by Coast Heavy Equipment, Inc., Pass Christian; Gregory Constructors, Inc., Gulfport; Regency Construction, Inc., Pearl River, La.; and Crown Equipment Co., Inc., Bay St. Louis.

Kelly McQueen, city clerk, was requested by the Council to study the bids and report at the next meeting on lowest bidder after comparisons.

The bids are to be good on the equipment rentals for six months.

Council voted to raise all hourly employees 10 cents per hour effective January 1, 1979.

Council also had on the agenda the appearance of the Band Aids representing the band at Bay Senior High School, but no representatives appeared at the Council meeting.

Council president James Thrifflay read two letters pertaining to an architectural-historical survey of the City of Bay St. Louis. The letter pertained to previous action by the Council on securing matching funds from the state.

Ronnie Murray had been given authority to look into the funds last month.

The Council recessed the meeting until next Tuesday at 8:45 p.m.

The Sea Coast Echo welcomes comments from its readers on subjects of general public interest. All letters must be signed, home address given and conform to published standards, be brief, in good taste and reason.

Gandy urges audit reports

Open Letter

TO: The Members of the Mississippi State Legislature

With the opening of the 1979 Session of the Legislature on Jan. 2, I wish to share some thoughts with you and with the people of Mississippi on what I believe to be an important and timely subject - fiscal accountability in government.

It is a fundamental and undisputed truth that the people are entitled to honest government in all respects at all levels at all times.

It is also a fundamental and undisputed truth that fiscal accountability is an essential requirement - an integral and vital part of the very foundation of honest government.

Furthermore, it is a fundamental and undisputed truth that the people are entitled to factual, comprehensive, and current fiscal reports, investigations, and audits of all public funds and all public property.

These reports are absolutely necessary to protect the integrity of government, for the information of the public, for the information and use of the people's elected officials, for the protection of the innocent, for the recovery of public funds and public property, and for the prosecution of the guilty.

During recent months, in the midst of charges relating to the alleged misuse of public funds and public property in several state agencies, state government has not been able to complete the necessary investigations, reports and audits to either substantiate or refute these charges in a timely manner.

Our public duty and the public interest demand that action be taken to insure that this situation does not occur again.

The investigating and auditing procedures of state government should certainly function in full cooperation with the federal government; however, state government must have the authority and established procedures to function independently as well as cooperatively in fully discharging the State's responsibility to our people. Therefore, I strongly recommend:

1. That a professionally staffed and adequately funded investigative Division be established in the Office of the Attorney General; and

2. That the State Auditor and the State Department of Audit be adequately staffed and funded to audit the handling and expenditure of all public funds on as current a basis as good accounting and auditing practices dictate; and

3. That the Attorney General and the State Auditor establish procedures whereby they will have professional staff, trained and available, to give priority attention to any situation involving public funds and/or public property where there is reason to believe an immediate investigation and/or audit is in the public interest.

On a number of occasions, I have discussed fiscal accountability with our State's chief auditor, State Auditor Hamp King, and with our State's chief attorney, Attorney General A. F. Summer.

Attorney General Summer has already recommended the establishment of an investigative division in the attorney general's office. He has advised that he plans to submit more detailed recommendations concerning this Division to the 1979 Session of the Legislature.

State Auditor King has advised that he plans to submit recommendations to the 1979 Session to strengthen the auditing functions and procedures of the State Auditor and the State Department of Audit.

These two constitutional, elected State officials have also said that they are working together to develop effective, coordinated recommendations which will avoid unnecessary duplication within their offices or with other state agencies.

It is my firm conviction that these recommendations deserve the consideration of the 1979 Legislature during the early days of the Session.

It is also my firm conviction that these recommendations relate to matters which are of grave concern to the people of Mississippi and for which workable solutions must be promptly developed and implemented.

I look forward to working with you during the 1979 Session on these and other matters of mutual interest and concern as we strive to fully discharge our responsibilities to the people of our State.

Happy New Year!

Evelyn Gandy

The Editor:

"It sounds as if feeding of city employees and others from the cafeteria is the idea of employees of the cafeteria. I do not believe this to be the case" - end of quote by Charles Gottchalk in this section Dec. 31, 1978.

This apparent "Free Feeding" of a favorite few almost equals another "feed" that took place several years ago.

For years the milk distributors of this school system were "forced" to refrigerate (at our expense) all the perishable foods received from the U.S.D.A. to be consumed by the system.

Finally this suppressive demand was outlawed and the system had to take on the responsibility of refrigeration which at that time was meager or almost non-existent.

Coincidentally, during that same school year, it was discovered that a shortage existed in the number of turkeys received and the number accounted for.

When several members of the P.T.A. (who had previously contacted me in regard to storage) went to the administration they were told that these birds had been placed in different homes in the community where deep freeze space was available and it was forgotten which homes had them. Any effort to recover? Not to my knowledge.

If I understand policy 18 - to be able to "air" problems, one must start at the bottom of the ladder and step by step work up to the top rung, but the problem seldom seems to get off the top rung because most of the time "it did not get on the agenda in time" and therefore it does not have to be answered.

Politically speaking, it dies on the floor (top rung) for lack of sufficient votes.

Here it seems we might have a complete turn around in policy 18. It appears that just maybe this free feed program will be aired from the top on down.

And in traveling that direction it has no where to stop except in the laps of the cafeteria workers, regardless of who is at fault.

How long are we going to condone this buck passing and suppression?

Seems to have become very common for some of our school officials to be "unaware" of things happening in the system.

Maybe if we demanded a cut in their lush salaries and completely abolish their fringe benefits (free transportation and traveling expenses "must go") for a starter.

It is my belief that if they were faced with the fact that they are "not" indispensable they would spend more time remembering and less time passing the buck.

USDA rescinds 'junk foods' restrictions

Nashville has been chosen as the site of one of three USDA public meetings on competitive foods to be held across the country.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has withdrawn an agriculture department proposal to restrict "competitive foods" in schools and announced that the meetings will be held in Nashville, Detroit and Seattle to get public suggestions on what should go into a new proposal. Competitive foods are any foods sold in competition with the type A Lunch required in the national school lunch program.

Last April, the agriculture department proposed to restrict—until after the last school lunch period—the sale of candy, soda water, frozen desserts and chewing gum sold in vending machines, on a la carte cafeteria lines or at snack stands.

The proposal implemented a provision of Public Law 95-166, enacted in November, 1977 of limited nutritional value that are offered in competition with the national school lunch and breakfast programs.

More than 2,100 comments were received on the April proposal—82 percent favoring the regulations or some variation of it; 18 percent opposed it—and they "raised some significant issues which deserve additional public scrutiny," Foreman said. "Therefore, we are withdrawing the April proposal and will use the public meetings and written comments to help form the basis for a new one."

The meetings will focus on developing competitive food standards that consider nutrition education, health, eating habits and the local administration of and impact on the school food programs. Foreman said the three public meetings were scheduled "in line with the agriculture department's policy of seeking broader participation in the decision making process of government."

The Nashville meeting will be held Jan. 30 in Room 358 of the University of Tennessee Center, 10th and Charlotte Ave., and will begin at 9 a.m. Those who wish to speak at the meeting should write to Southeast Regional Administrator David B. Alsopach or Regional Information Director Edward W. Hightower, 1100 Spring St., NW, Atlanta, GA 30309, or call (404) 881-4259.

Those who cannot attend but wish to comment may do so by writing Margaret O.K. Glavin, school programs division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, by Feb. 15.

Heart meets tonight

An organizational meeting of the 1979 Hancock County Heart Fund is slated tonight at 7:30 p.m., a fund spokesman said.

The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. David A. Treutel, 132 St. Charles St., Bay St. Louis.

"More than half of all deaths in Mississippi are from heart or blood vessel diseases," Mrs. Treutel said. "The estimated cardiovascular deaths in Hancock County for 1979 is 81," she added.

She reported total receipts from the Hancock County Heart Fund's 1978 drive were $3,150. Mrs. Treutel said the goal for 1979 is $3,400.

"This is very little when you think in terms of approximately 20 cents-per-person in Hancock County," Mrs. Treutel said.

"Before us is an exciting challenge...with your support and time our campaign will be the biggest Heart Fund success story yet," she added.

Ladner says Coast Classic a "success"

By RICH ADAMS
Hancock North Central head basketball coach Roland Ladner termed the recent Mississippi Gulf Coast Jaycees Holiday Basketball Classic a "success," adding preparations for next year's 32-team invitational have already begun.

"We were pleased with this year's tournament, which acted as a basis to iron out the wrinkles," the coach said. He said the organization of the tournament was a major problem in that the Jaycees did not send out invitations to teams soon enough. He said many minor problems plagued the first Holiday Classic, but most were ironed out. "We can improve the workings of the tournament next year," he said. Ladner said the tournament brought in enough money to "break even or make a small profit."

He reported a crowd of "about 2,800 fans at the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi for the finals between Redemptorist of Baton Rouge, La. and Pascagoula, and said a larger crowd is expected next year.

He said an organizational meeting between local coaches and the Jaycees was held Wednesday, and added plans to invite teams from Florida, Alabama, and Louisiana will help draw a larger crowd.

He also added that girl's competition, limited to eight teams this year, will increase to 16 teams next year.

"Mississippi has a better girl's basketball program than most states," Coach Ladner said.

The 32-team tournament was the brainchild of Ladner, who brought the idea to the Mississippi Gulf Coast after participating in a similar invitational in Texas in 1977.

He organized the classic in a single year, and looks to next year to bring more profit and better play than this year's competition.

He also anticipates fewer problems than this tournament produced.

"A lot more fans would have shown if we would have had more teams from New Orleans and Alabama," he contends.

"We had a team from Tennessee which was under the 24-hour rule and needed a waiver," he said.

Ladner said the Tennessee team was only allowed to play one game in a 24-hour period, unlike Mississippi teams which may play two games in a day with a four-hour break.

"For every problem we solved, two more were created," he said.

"Generally we were very pleased with the way things went. Most people were satisfied. This tournament will carry on," he added.

Billy Rhodes resigns

By RICH ADAMS
Bay High head football coach Billy Rhodes has submitted a letter of resignation, asking to be relieved of his duties as Tiger head coach.

According to his letter of resignation, Rhodes is resigning "due to the lack of improvement of the win-loss record (of the football team) at the senior high school."

He has skipped the Tigers for three years, and last season his squad recorded a 1-9 season.

According to Bay St. Louis Schools Superintendent J. D.

McCullough, Rhodes hopes to remain at Bay High as a teacher.

"He only wants to be relieved of his coaching duties, but desires to remain as a teacher. I will do all I can to help him remain at the school," said McCullough.

Bay High Athletic Director Wilmer Seymour said no replacement has been found for Rhodes as head football coach.

"No replacement has been named yet. We will look through our ranks and see if anybody is qualified," Seymour said.

Fifty-cents may buy a miracle

By S. GRADY THIGPEN

A 30-year-old boy was leaning against the fence in the back of my store sobbing as if his heart would break.

When I tried to talk to him he told me in a broken voice between sobs that he had lost a 50-cent piece with which he had been sent to town by his mother to make a purchase.

He explained that if he went home without the things that he had been sent for he would get a whipping.

I reached into my pocket and gave him a 50-cent piece. I saw a miracle happen. Twenty-five years later that young man is a good friend of mine.

This old quotation comes to mind: "How easily a miracle can be wrought." Many troubled people in the world are just waiting for simple human ministry to be quickly transformed.

It is this kind of miracle working which our Lord commended when he tells of the service rendered by the gift of a cooling cup of water.

This kind of thing is something which everyone can do, however humble it may be, to transform the world for some weary sojourner along the road through life, to change his thirst into satisfaction, his weariness into strength.

The story is told of the mayor of a city who, in passing through town, met a fellow citizen who had just been released from jail where he had served a term for embezzlement.

"Hello," said the Mayor in a cheerful tone, "I am glad to see you. How are you?" The man seemed ill at ease and passed on. Years afterwards, the former mayor met this man in another city, the man immediately walked up to him and said, "I want to thank you for what you did for me when I came out of prison."

"What did I do for you?" asked the surprised former mayor.

"You spoke a kind word to me when just about everyone else was down on me," he said, "and it changed my life."

Another miracle! A kind word and a poor unfortunate man's life is changed.

One of my most cherished memories is what a blind old lady said. She had visited my place of business numerous times over the years. When her husband died, I drove the 10 miles out to her home to pay my respects.

As I entered the room where she was, her daughter said, "Mama, I bet you don't know who this is."

As I said good morning to her she immediately replied, "It's Mr. Thigpen. I know his voice for he always goes and get a chair for me when I visit his store."

This little common courtesy of mine had made this fine old lady remember me most kindly.

For more than 50 years I've made it a practice to talk to every small child and every old person who comes into my store and to all others when convenient to do so.

I've had many grand experiences in my 60 years in the hardware business, especially with the little folks.

The personalities of little folks vary greatly even more than of grown folks.

Some of the little ones are very talkative and respond to every question, others are reserved and difficult to talk to.

When I greet children as they come in, I offer each one a sucker or a piece of chewing gum.

About 95 percent of them take what is offered enthusiastically, others in a timid way.

Occasionally one will come in who is either too timid to accept the small gift or maybe has been told not to accept gifts from strangers. It is heart warming to see the smiles of pleasure most of them give me.

Once when I offered a little girl a piece of spearmint gum, she held out her hand, but when she saw what it was she said, "That's not my brand, I chew only Doublemint."

I went and got her a stick of Doublemint. Often when I offer a child something, most often a little girl, she'll say she has a brother and sister at home who'd appreciate some.

Just recently a woman came in with her daughter who had a child about 3-years-old. She said, "You gave me suckers when I was a child, you gave my daughter suckers when she came in with me, and now we have another one who also likes them."

Another lady said, "My children will not let me come to town without coming to your store." Something similar to that is often said by women who come in.

Many children come into my place of business. Often one becomes dissatisfied and begins to cry. While the mother makes efforts to try to quiet the child, I've found that a sucker or a piece of gum will stop the yelling instantly every time.

In quiet moments, when too many people are not in the store I like to talk to children. I say something like this, "I'll bet a big boy like you is 4 years old, while holding up 4 fingers. About 99 times out of a hundred this immediately catches the attention of the child, who nods assent or maybe hold up 3 fingers or 5.

When a little older and a child has told me that he goes to school, I may ask something like this: "Are there any bad boys in your room?" Some say no, but most often I get a quick response of "Plenty of them," or maybe 1 or 2 or more, and they often name them.

Children are original natural, uninhibited and much smarter than one might think. I asked one little fellow, "Does the teacher ever get on your ding dong?" He blushing replied, "Sometimes, but you don't call it ding-dong."

Attention to children never fails to please the parents, especially the mothers. And I have found that old people are most appreciative when greeted in a friendly way and special attention is paid to them.

No questions but what extra courtesy and friendliness is good for my business but the real reason for 60 years of greeting people in always a most friendly way is because I like to do it and it has made my life a long journey of daily interesting and often heart warming experiences.

Bay Legion Post site of oratorical contest

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, Bay St. Louis is sponsoring local preliminaries to the 42nd annual National American Legion High School Oratorical Contest.

The local competition will be at the Post Home on Greenmeadow Road Wednesday, Jan. 24 at 7 p.m.

Five judges will hear some 10 area student entrants.

"Students win more than awards and scholarships when they participate in the American Legion High School Oratorical Contest," said Bill Moran, chairman of the local program.

"Some of the fringe benefits," according to Moran, "are increased self-confidence and poise, experience in communicating with others and valuable training in self-expression."

"In the 42 years the American Legion has sponsored the high school oratorical contest, more than three million high school students have participated," he added.

Participants write then deliver an eight to 10 minute expression of their views on some phase of "The Constitution of the United States" which will give emphasis to the attendant duties and obligations of a citizen to our government," Moran continued.

National winners receive a total of $44,000 in scholarship awards.

"One of the greatest benefits to young people who take part in the program is that by thinking, writing and speaking on their understanding of the Constitution of the United States, they gain a better appreciation of their obligation to maintain our freedom heritage," Moran said.
